Must, should, might – Modalverben sind wichtige Helfer in der englischen Sprache. Aber wann verwende ich nochmal welches Modal verb? Und was sind die Besonderheiten bei deren Verwendung? In dieser Unterrichtseinheit wiederholen Ihre Schülerinnen und Schüler die Modalverben und wenden sie in verschiedenen berufs- und alltagsspezifischen Kontexten an. Dabei vertiefen sie nicht nur ihre grammatischen Kompetenzen, sondern erwerben auch Grundwissen aus den Bereichen job interviews, business trips, dating, healthy eating.

Minimalplan

Haben Sie nur wenig Zeit zur Verfügung und möchten die Materialien lediglich kurz wiederholen? Steigen Sie mit M 1 und M 2 ein und rekapitulieren Sie mit Ihren Lernenden die Regeln der modal verbs. Als Vertiefung können Sie daraufhin frei zwischen den weiteren Materialien wählen und eigene Schwerpunkte setzen. Möchten Sie im beruflichen Kontext bleiben und Ihre Schüler gleichzeitig auf job interviews vorbereiten, arbeiten Sie mit M 4–M 6 weiter. Möchten Sie viele verschiedene Modalverben auf einmal üben, nutzen Sie M 7. Möchten Sie lieber in die Alltagswelt Ihrer Lernenden eintauchen, können Sie die Materialien M 8–M 9 (dating advice) oder M 10–M 11 (healthy eating) einsetzen.

Rule sheet – modal verbs

You can use modal verbs to express different conditions<sup>1</sup> and to fulfil different functions.

Tasks

- Find out about the different functions. Write down the translations. You can use a dictionary.
- Assign<sup>2</sup> the different modal verbs and the sentences to the functions.
- Name the replacements<sup>3</sup> that can be used for modals in the past tense. You can use the internet to do some research.
- Write down one more example for the different functions.

Modal verbs (helping verbs) are not like other verbs.

- Their form does not change for different persons (there is no 3rd person singular 's'): She must go home.
- They do not need "do/does/did" to form questions: Must she go home?
- They are followed by a verb in the infinitive form: She must go home.
- Besides "could" and "would" there are no past tenses. You have to use a replacement.
- Using the negative forms: must = müssen – mustn't = nicht dürfen / I need = ich brauchen – needn't = nicht müssen

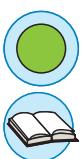

Function	Modal(s)	Example	Replacements for past tense
Ability Translation:
Request / permission Translation:
Advice Translation:
Obligation / necessity Translation:
Possibility Translation:

Modal verbs: can (3x) – may (2x) – could (3x) – should (2x) – must – would – shall – might – will

Sentences:

It will rain tomorrow afternoon. My colleague may visit us tomorrow. This book speaks three languages. Could you help me please? You should go on a vacation.	Would you mind if I sit down? We shall need an extra conference room when they arrive. You should pay the bill. Anna could do gymnastics when she was 6.	This hotel might be expensive. You can use my car. You must be prepared for your interview. May I borrow your pen? You should ask a lot of questions.

<sup>1</sup> conditions: hier: die Verhältnisse – 2 to assign sth.: etw. zuordnen – 3 replacement: der Ersatz

M 5*Partner A:*10 things not to say in a job interview

With the jobs market more competitive<sup>1</sup> than ever it can be hard work just to get an interview, so once you're actually in front of potential employers you don't want to ruin your prospects with an ill-chosen<sup>2</sup> comment.

Sadly, some job hunters<sup>3</sup> still do speak before they think. Corinne Mills, managing director of Personal Career Management, says she can recall many instances of interviewees saying the wrong thing. "I remember when one man was asked why he wanted the job, he replied 'Because my mum thought it was a good idea,'" she says.

She adds that some job hunters have also been known to say they've applied for a job "because it will pay the rent while I look for a job I really want to do" and a common response to a question about what candidates like to do in their spare time is "go to the pub". [...]

We asked Nott, Mills and Nik Pratap of Hays Senior Finance for their list of the top things to avoid<sup>4</sup> saying at a job interview:

- 1) "Sorry I'm late." It goes without saying that punctuality is key. Your interviewer doesn't want you to arrive for work 20 minutes late every morning.
- 15) 2) "What's your annual leave and sickness policy?" It doesn't look good if, before you've even been hired, you're planning your absence<sup>5</sup> from the company.
- 3) "I'll just take this call." Mills says a large number of candidates think it is OK to take telephone calls, texts etc during an interview. It isn't.
- 20) 4) When asked, "Where do you see yourself in five years?" never say, "Doing your job." As much as this might be a genuine<sup>6</sup> answer, Nott says candidates should "try to build a response around the experience they would like to have gained and the level of responsibility they'd like to have, rather than the existing employer's job."
- 5) "My previous employer sucked." No matter how [...] boring those roles might have been, "speaking badly of a previous employer is not only unprofessional, but also reflects on your character," Pratap says. Your new employer will contact your former employer for references following an interview, so it's never wise to burn your bridges.
- 25) 6) "You make widgets? I thought you made cricket bats." Failing to research your prospective employer fully is a big faux pas. "Saying you've looked at their website is only marginally better – employers expect far more research," Mills explains.
- 7) "Bloody hell." Never swear in your interview. It can happen, especially if your interviewer is themselves prolific with the profanities<sup>7</sup>, but don't let them set the standard of the interview and remain professional at all times.
- 30) 8) "I was very good at sorting out PEBs by using ARCs." Don't fall into the industry jargon of previous employer or assume the interviewer knows anything about your experience, Pratap advises. Instead, speak clearly about your skills and experience to avoid any confusion or misunderstanding.
- 9) "Do I really have to wear that uniform?" Any criticism of staff uniform will go down like a lead balloon. Do you think your interviewer enjoyed wearing that fluorescent green jumpsuit when they performed your role?
- 40) 10) When asked, "What do you expect to enjoy most about this role?" never reply with any of the following: the perks, the pay, lunchtimes, my co-workers or the holidays, Nott says.

Could you tell me about our first meeting? – Possibilities

When you are talking about future plans with your colleague you use modal verbs.

Task

Read the text and fill in the following modal verbs: can/could, cannot/could not, can't/couldn't, may/might, will, will not (won't).

Paul and Sarah are leaving for a business trip on Monday.

Paul: Good morning Sarah. Let us talk about our business trip next week.

Sarah: Sure. _____ you tell me about the flights and hotel?

Paul: Our flight _____ leave at 8 a.m. on Monday morning. I think it _____ be good if we meet here at 6.30 a.m.

Sarah: Yes, I think that is a good idea. The traffic _____ be really busy on Monday mornings and we _____ miss the flight.

you check our check-in and boarding times once again before we leave?

Paul: I _____ do that. Our hotel is in the city centre. Since it _____ rain on Monday, I think it's better to order an airport transfer. _____ you take care of that?

Sarah: O.K., but _____ it's going to be very expensive?

Paul: Don't worry about that! Our company _____ pay for all our expenses while we are on a business trip.

Sarah: Good. I have already checked our schedule for the trip.

Paul: That's great. _____ you tell me when our first appointment is?

Sarah: It is not before Tuesday. That means that we _____ have time to get settled in before the meetings start.

Paul: Amazing. _____ meet up with an old friend of mine who lives in London.

Sarah: _____ I join you?

Paul: Of course. You _____ join us for dinner if you like. I am sure he won't mind.

Sarah: Thank you. Our last meeting is on Friday at 10 a.m.

Paul: Alright. Our plane leaves at 3 p.m. _____ you also take care about the transfer back to the airport?

Sarah: Of course. Maybe the transfer company _____ even offer a two-way deal.

Paul: Yes they _____. Last but not least: We have to make sure to fill in all the paper work, so that the company _____ pay back all of our expenses.

Oops, not a perfect date – giving advice

Not every date goes perfectly.

Tasks

1. Complete the speech bubbles with the following sentences.
2. Name four things you shouldn't/mustn't do on a date.

A comedy.	Do you want to go to the cinema with me?	He is so cute!	I'm fine.
We only have got tickets for the kids' film.	What kind of film would you like to see?	How are you?	This date is terrible!
Oh no! I forgot my wallet.	You're late. We have to hurry to see the beginning of the film.	Okay, I can pay.	Yes, that sounds good.
